

Aidan Salaz

Aidan was born in Denver and moved to Grand Junction, CO at the age of two. After seeing his uncle, a dancer, perform on the Ellen show when he was eight, he became deeply interested in the dance world. Initially focusing just on hip-hop, he then later expanded his repertoire to include jazz, contemporary, tap, and ballet. Growing up as a competition dancer, he participated in numerous conventions, which enhanced both his technique and his ability to quickly learn combinations. He has worked with and taken classes from Teddy Forance, Racheal Markarian, and Canyon Carballosa. Aidan most recently joined the Colorado West Ballet trainee program and performed in their productions of Alice's Wonderland, Coppélia, and The Nutcracker, where he danced the role of the Rat King.
